

ABSTRACT

Caricature exaggeration systems, engines, and methods create a drawing of a facial image, compare relationships among facial features in the drawing to corresponding relationships in facial images and corresponding caricatures in a database, and automatically exaggerate at least one relationship among facial features in the drawing based on the facial images and the corresponding caricatures in the database.